INTRODUCTION

MedDev's Eyelid Implants are designed for the surgical treatment of Lagophthalmos resulting from the defective innervation of the orbicularis oculi muscle due to facial paralysis. The paralysis may arise from facial nerve injury, including Bell's palsy, trauma, congenital defect, surgical nerve damage, tumor invasion, and resection of tumors ( e.g. acoustic neuroma and parotidectomy).

Functional defects which may be corrected or avoided with the use of MedDev Eyelid Implants include: inadequate eyelid closure, impaired corneal lubrication, serious keratopathy, ocular irritation, keratitis, corneal abrasion, corneal ulceration, conjunctivitis, pain, discomfort, epiphora and decreased vision due to ocular exposure.
